TWO THOUSAND AT MEETING OF BANKERS

In view of the insidious methods employed, it is essential that our members be constantly on their guard against these operations and at the same time cooperate with the protective committee in any manner that will secure certain punishment to those instigating and perpetrating this system of high finance.

Banking and Currency Reforms.
The last few years have witnessed a remarkable change in the views of many bankers and the entire country on the question of banking and currency reforms.

Call it what you will—preferably "the Bank of the United States"—we surely need a large institution for redress and currency issue to perfect our otherwise admirable banking system.

We have many advantages over the systems of other countries, for we derive great benefit from our method of bank supervision and the operation of individual local banks, but these units have no ultimate cohesion and are like an unorganized mob in time of war, presenting in each emergency the same exhibition of an inability to obtain enough currency and credit to tide over intense situations and prevent the usual losses to worthy and solvent concerns.

In every other nation of the world a banking and monetary system heading up to an institution of discount and currency issue has demonstrated its beneficial influence to aid in keeping business conditions steady and stable by conservatively controlling the expansion of credit through its rate of discount and automatically increasing and decreasing the volume of note issues with the requirements of trade.

It, therefore, does not seem reasonable that our business men can longer tolerate the handicaps under which their affairs suffer when they realize that the causes of these handicaps emanate from weaknesses in our banking system which can be easily cured, and it is also hard to believe that congress will long be unmindful of the absolute necessity for a proper revision of our banking and currency system.

General Business.
The past year has been an active one for our over 90,000,000 of people; the volume of clearings for the eight months past, according to Bradstreet's exceed those of 1909 by 5 percent, and the percentage of idle railroads cars in the month of August is 66 percent less than in 1909, all tending to keep our institutions busy and fully employ the funds entrusted to our care.

The nation's increasing power of consumption without an apparent corresponding increase in production has stimulated the cost of living, and especially the cost of food prices, and at the same time is tending to seriously weaken our export power, which, in every financial stringency heretofore, has quickly brought gold to relieve the strain.

Throughout the nation we find waste everywhere, in the housewife's kitchen, in the business man's office and in the farmer's field, and our extravagance in living is tending to exceed income and encroach upon capital.

Report of Secretary.
The annual report of general secretary Fred E. Farnsworth for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1910, shows a membership of 11,405, an increase of 682 on August 31, 1909, a net increase for the fiscal year of 723. The aggregate capital, surplus and deposits of the membership is shown to be almost $14,000,000.00.

The paid memberships have increased from 1890 on September 1, 1875, to the present figures of 11,405, the present membership being divided as follows: National, 4486; state, 4172; private 692; trust companies, 1025; savings banks, 530.

FOUR JURORS ARE SECURED IN THE LEECH TRIAL

Influence upon him in trying the case. The challenge was overruled and excepted to by the defense. The defense renewed its challenge for cause on the same ground of a fixed opinion and also because he is related to district attorney Howe and attorney W. H. Burges, being their father-in-law. The challenge was again overruled. The state accepted the juror and the defense excused him peremptorily.

Charles J. Anstrand, employed at the Hixson jewelry store, was challenged for cause by the defense because he was prejudiced against the crime and the defendant. The challenge was sustained and the juror excused.

Civil Engineer Walker Taken.
E. Walker, a civil engineer, connected with the Southern railway, was passed by the state and defense. The state accepted the juror and the defense took him.

The Special Verdict.
The remainder of the special venire for the Leech trial follows: Fred Lemley, A. Golding, W. O'Brien, George Y. Calvert, H. M. Maple, W. Rosing, W. C. Taylor, H. Andreas, Sam Milliron, J. H. Axel Swanson, a tailor; Fred Lemley, a liquor dealer, and A. Golding, a janitor, were excused because they had scruples against inflicting the death penalty.

W. E. O'Brien, a teller at the Rio Grande Valley bank, had formed a fixed opinion and was excused by the court.

George V. Calvert, employed at the Hoyt Furniture company, was excused because of fixed opinions regarding the case.

H. M. Maple, a real estate dealer, was passed by the state. He was challenged by the defense because he stated that he had formed a fixed opinion. He was excused by the court.

Both Sides Challenge.
W. Rosing, a clothing dealer, stated that he had an unchangeable fixed opinion and was challenged by the defense for cause, the state joining in the challenge, and he was excused.

W. C. Taylor, a contractor, was excused by the state, because he stated that he had such an opinion that it would influence him in the case if chosen. He was excused by the court, after the defense was refused an opportunity to question the venireman.

Herman Andreas of the City National bank was passed by the state and defense. The state took the juror peremptorily.

Forty New Men Join Y. M. C. A.
Race to the South Pole Won by Nelson Rheinheimer Team Saturday.

Considerable enthusiasm was aroused at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night over the closing of the boys' membership contest. This campaign was set up as two expeditions to the south pole, one captained by Nelson Rheinheimer and the other by Frank Ross, and all the boys members of the association were lined up on either one of the other of these expeditions. Every dollar brought in on memberships during the week counted 40 miles on the trip to the pole, the Ross expedition traveling from El Paso to the south pole by way of New York and the Rheinheimer expedition by way of San Francisco. Record was kept of the progress of the campaign by tracing the number of miles traveled each day on a map hung in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A.

The race was exactly even up to within half an hour of the closing time Saturday night, when some members of the Rheinheimer expedition captured a boy down town and rushed him up to the building with the membership fee which was closing of the boys' membership contest. About 40 new names were added to the boys' membership list during the campaign. A banquet for the new members, together with the boys who secured them, is being arranged for an early date.

LITTLE DAUGHTER HAD SCALP HUMOR

Itched So that She Scratched Until Blood Came, Hair Fell Out. Scalp had Unpleasant Odor. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment Four Weeks. Scalp Perfectly Clear.

Hair Began to Grow Again and Now Has Beautiful, Long Hair.

"When my little daughter was about five years old, she was taken with the measles. A few weeks after the measles were gone, she began to have a severe scalp humor. It itched so that she would scratch the whole day, until the blood came. We had a doctor and tried a good many other remedies, but nothing helped. Her hair fell out and the scalp itself had an unpleasant odor.

"After we had tried all the other remedies, my wife told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. We bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. We used the Cuticura Remedies according to directions and in about three or four weeks her scalp was perfectly clear of the terrible humor. Her hair began to grow again and now she has beautiful, long hair. Since that time I have recommended the Cuticura Remedies to other people and they also had success. Chas. Salzbrener, Amana, Iowa, Nov. 8, 1909."

WIDESPREAD SEARCH ON FOR DYNAMITERS

unday morning and through it endeavoring to trace the men who purchased the explosive at the Giant powder mills across the bay from this city. Earl Rogers, a Los Angeles attorney, and the head of the detective agency, are in San Francisco on the trail of the alleged dynamiters. They were accompanied by several detectives from the Los Angeles police department and together with half a dozen men from the detective bureau of the local department, spent a busy day in running down any clues that may lead to the arrest.

Trail Leads Back to Los Angeles.
Arrests and sensational developments which it was rumored would follow soon after the arrival of the Los Angeles attorney and detectives did not transpire and it is intimated that the trail was leading back to Los Angeles.

Attorney Rogers and a detective visited the powder plant at Giant, in Costa county, while the men they brought with them and the local police scoured the water front for some trace of the mysterious launch, the "Peerless" which took 500 pounds of 80 percent gelatine dynamite from the powder works after it had been purchased in the San Francisco office of the company by three men giving the names of Leonard, Bryson and Morrison. This occurred on September 23, according to the records of the company.

One Clue Found.
About the only clue which rewarded

the efforts of the detectives was that the name "Peerless" evidently was a disguise, a local sign firm giving the information that it sold the aluminum letters of this name and about the size as seen on the launch shortly before September 23. No further trace of the men or the boat has been found, according to statements made by officers.

"We are without any positive clues," said Rogers, "but we think we are on the right track and I believe that developments will lead us back to Los Angeles."

Let us suggest a dainty frozen desert. Phone the Bell, any time.
